

Mark your calendars for Writer's Harvest Tuesday 11/21 @ 7pm on Zoom!

to ENGGRADE, ENGDEPT

No one deserves to go hungry this holiday Season.

Miami University's English Department, Oxford Magazine, and the Western Center for Social Impact and Innovation invite the community to attend their 33rd Annual Writer's Harvest event on Tuesday, November 21st at 7 pm.

The event will be held virtually over Zoom and is free to the public. Participants can register online. Please spread the word - invite your students, colleagues, friends and family. Register for the Zoom here!

Featuring writing by students in Miami University's Creative Writing MFA program and art by local artists, the 2023 Writer's Harvest will benefit the Talawanda Oxford Pantry and Social Services \(TOPSS\).

The mission of TOPSS is to provide services, remove barriers, and develop collaborations that support the nutrition-related well-being of all residents of the Talawanda School District so they can fully utilize their unique capabilities. All proceeds from the art auction are donated directly to TOPSS. Additionally, participants will have the opportunity to donate directly to TOPSS throughout the virtual event. We've attached a flier you can share, and you can use and share this link to the art auction where you can bid. You do not have to be present to bid!

This year's event features readings by MFA Creative Writing candidates Danton Remoto, Mary Newton, Priyadarshini Oshin Gogoi, and Ash Ganderi.

Thank you for helping us fight hunger in our community and supporting our writers and artists!

--

Sophia Judge (she/her)
Miami University, Bachelor Hall, Rm. 311
Graduate Assistant, English
Editor in Chief, Oxford Magazine

CREATIVE READING + ONLINE ART AUCTION

WRITER'S HARVEST

NOVEMBER 21, 2023
7-8:15PM VIA ZOOM

FEATURING READINGS BY

Art Auction--
Bid now!

Danton Remoto
Oshin Gogoi
Mary Newton
Ash Ganderi

A Miami English Dept x Western Center for Social Impact and Innovation fundraiser for TOPSS

Register to watch
on Zoom